Treaty A Remedy.

"There can be no possible doubt that the world wants to get rid of war. The next thing to realize is that this league of nations now before the United States is not only a remedy for war but is is the only remedy that is proposed. There no other. Its critics suggest no other way; they predict no other. It is this or nothing if we want to prevent Defined Plans.

"The attempt to defeat the league of nations has developed along several well defined lines, first;

"By an appeal to a distorted and false Americanism. In this effort the pretense is made that the league does not protect the Monroe doctrine, that it impairs the sovereign powers of congress, that it permits the council of the league to force us into war, and that it drags domestic questions like immigration and tariff into the realm of international deeisions subject to its jurisdiction. This is an unqualified misrepresentation of the league.

"Secondly, it asserts a bold falsehood that article ten of the league will involve us in European wars and make it necessary to send our boys to take part in them.

"The first part of this misrepresentation consists in the assumption that there will be frequent wars. whereus the pledges and guarantees which the members give to settle disputes by lawful methods make this assumption a reckiess mis-statement. The league provisions will make wars growing out of disputes highly improbable. Article ten deals with wars of conquest in which one nation might attempt to destroy the independence or seize the territory
